

Ohio Classical Conference Annual Report

The OJCL (Ohio Junior Classical League) held its annual convention from Feb. 24-26, 2012. It was a big success: there were close to 1000 Latin students from all over Ohio in attendance, competing in various categories such as skit, certamen (a kind of Latin jeopardy game), and many other events. For the full program, please go to the OJCL website at <http://ojcl.org/> and check out the link to the OJCL 2012 convention. The National Convention will be at Wake Forest University (Winston-Salem NC) from Thursday July 26th to Tues July 31st. Students who are interested to attend should register early as the convention is projected to reach the 1600 capacity.

Latin Teachers M. Ely, C. Bening, and F. Gruber at the 2012 OJCL convention

Columbus Academy Latin students at the 2012 OJCL convention